PREPARING FOR THANKSGIVING

Indications are at this time that Thanksgiving day will be celebrated in Dothan quietly Thursday. At 10 o'clock in the morning a union Thanksgiving service will be held at the First Baptist church, and Rev. Robert L. Campbell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will preach the sermon. Special music will be rendered.

Dinners Planned.
The housewives of Dothan are, as is the custom at this time of the year, already planning for splendid dinners Thursday. Turkey, cranberries, ambrosia, cakes, meats, vegetables, will certainly occupy the foremost places on the menus. Many a turkey will never see the light of day after Thursday.

Football Game.
A football game is planned for the afternoon and this event will take place at Baker Field. The High School team, it is understood, failed to get a game with any outside team, so some of the boys in town have challenged the school squad. Here are the town challengers: Yarbrough, L.; E. J. Powell, L. T.; W. Johnson, L. G.; Carroll, C.; Weathers, R. G.; Black, R. T.; Wafford, R. T.; Whatley, Q. B.; Burdshaw, L. H.; Boyd, R. H.; Barber, F. B.

Will Go Hunting.
Many of the men and boys of the city will take their guns and go out into the country in quest of birds, and if there is anything in past records, many of these sportsmen will come back to town with their share of game.

Boll Weevil Not
Destroyed by Quail
Says Game Warden

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 22.—So many inquiries concerning the value of the quail as an enemy to the cotton boll weevil have come to the State Game Commissioner, Charles S. Arnow, that on Saturday he issued the following statement on the subject:

"I am daily receiving inquiries, both verbal and written, as to whether or not the quail, or Bob White partridge, may properly be considered as one of the chief means of retarding the advance of the boll weevil in Georgia.

"I feel sure that it will not be out of place for me to give some publicity as to my views on this subject, such views being based on the investigation made by the federal government and the entomologist of this state, as well.

"While it is true that the quail destroys a goodly number of insects of various varieties it is not true that they destroy the boll weevil. It is well known that this bird is a ground feeder—while the boll weevil is not found on the ground. The birds that are the non-game species, chief among which may be mentioned among the family of swallows and martins.

"While it is not my purpose to discuss the protection of this great game bird, the quail, I do not believe the people of Georgia should labor under a misapprehension and for this reason I make the statement above.

Would Build On Dusey Street If
Name Is Changed

Contractor J. W. Baughman has just completed some sidewalk paving on South Dusey street for a property owner, and this improvement certainly adds to the appearance of that part of town.

A certain property owner in the city is quoted as making the statement that he would build an attractive bungalow on Dusey street if the name of the street were changed.

For some reason many of the people who live on Dusey object to the name of the street, and the matter was finally placed before city council not long ago, but council refused any relief. The point was made that the street was named for an old resident of the city, and that it should not be changed.

One Way Out.

In view of the opposition to the name of the street, which is fast becoming one of Dothan's leading residential thoroughfares, some have suggested that the name be changed to Guilford street. The street, it is understood, was named for Mrs. Dusey Guilford, one of the old and respected pioneer citizens of the city. Some think Guilford is a more appropriate name, and that the change would still honor the woman for whom the street was called, and would pacify those who find fault with the name Dusey.

increase, but for some reason not clearly understood but certainly well known, the opposite seems to be the case.

"From my personal observation, I would state that where the quail was never killed, that they do not become more abundant. Several reasons for this have been advanced by ornithologists. Whatever the cause, our chief consideration is that this has been demonstrated as a fact. I am of the opinion that the laws of this state protecting the bird are absolutely adequate if enforced. I believe further that the quail as well as other game birds were put here from the beginning for our use, such use to be sane and moderate.

"The sportsmen of Georgia will continue to be the best friends of the game laws of this state. They are concerned in the protection and conservation. They hope to live and enjoy the legitimate pursuit of game for many years. It, therefore, is of paramount importance to such sportsmen to give their best effort and influence in bringing about the real enforcement of the laws, the purpose of which is to protect and conserve the game of this state."

ALLIES BEGIN A BIG OFFENSIVE

Berlin, Nov. 22.—The greatest offensive that the allies have yet undertaken at the Dardanelles is under way, says the Constantinople correspondent of the Cologne Gazette. The Anglo-French forces are making a desperate effort to dislodge the Turks from their positions on the Gallipoli peninsula. Warships are co-operating with the land forces.

A Geneva dispatch to the International News Service said that German troops had begun to arrive in Constantinople over the Orient railway to help the Turks. The Cologne Gazette dispatch is borne out by the official announcement of the British war office last week in which it was stated that 280 yards of Turkish Trenches had been gained at the Dardanelles.

SCENES OF HORROR
AS SHOW MAN AND WIFE DIE IN FIRE

Con Kennedy's Carnival Outfit Smashed When No. 2 Falls to Sidetrack at Muscogee, Ga.—Wreck Six Miles From Columbus.—Show on Way to Phenix City, Ala.

Six persons, and probably more are dead and a score of others are injured as the result of head-on collision between passenger train No. 2 and a special train carrying the Con T. Kennedy Carnival Shows, the accident occurring on the Central of Georgia Railway, about six miles from Columbus, Ga., yesterday afternoon.

From the best information obtainable the wreck was caused by the failure of the train on No. 2 to read their orders correctly and stop at Muscogee, four miles east of Columbus, and allow the special train to pass. Number 2, fast passenger train, equipped with steel coaches, did not stop, according to orders. How the conductor, engineer, and other officials, all failed to understand the orders has not been explained.

Show Folks Injured.

The show people fared badly in the wreck, while only a few persons on number 2, it seems, were injured. The fact that the regular passenger train had steel coaches, with which all railroad companies should be provided, it is said probably explains why many on that train were not killed.

Fred S. Kempf and his wife were burned to death while show people looked helplessly on. Their four-year-old child was saved through the heroism of her mother alone.

Flames were licking at one of the palatial automobile trucks of the Kempfs, which was on a flat car and in which the Kempfs were imprisoned. Mrs. Kempf, seeing that there was no chance to escape, hurled her child thru a window, clear of the train. Then the mother fell back and was burned alive a minute later.

The child was badly injured, but Columbus people, who picked up the little girl and rushed her to a hospital, say the little girl will live.

There has been much confusion at the scene of the wreck, which is six and a half miles east of Columbus, and it will be morning before the carnival company can complete its check to ascertain the number of missing.

MARRIED SUNDAY

Walter Wright and Miss Maggie Green motored to Blakely, Ga., Sunday, where they were united in marriage. They have been receiving the congratulations of their many friends.

GETS PERMIT

The city council has granted E. O. Jones a permit to erect a galvanized iron structure at the rear of the Malone Grocery company, provided it is agreeable with adjacent property owners.

PAYTON TERRY
CASE ON TRIAL

Payton Terry, charged with killing Dan Velverton in a cutting scrape near Ashford several years ago, was placed on trial in Circuit court this morning.

The morning hours of the day were devoted largely to hearing evidence in this case, which has attracted considerable attention since it has been in the courts.

Terry was given a trial by jury on a previous occasion, but the case was reversed for another trial.

Pleads Guilty.

Arnon Waters, a negro, who shot and killed his wife on Travis, is Nixon's place near Madrid, a few months ago, plead guilty to first degree murder when arraigned yesterday, and received a sentence of life imprisonment in the penitentiary.

Girl Imprisoned
By Father For Twelve Years

Easton, Mo., Nov. 22.—Grace Marshall, the young woman whose father and stepmother are charged with having imprisoned her in their home near St. Michaels for nearly twelve years, spoke today for the first time since her liberation last Friday. She asked for an apple she saw on the table of her room in her aunt's home.

When she was asked yesterday to try to write the first thing that came into her mind, she spelled out the word, "Mother."

Miss Marshall was imprisoned, it is alleged, for attempting to elope at the age of 16 with a man of whom her father disapproved. Relatives thought her dead. Marshall said he considered her insane and that as he could not afford to send her to an institution, he thought the only thing to do was to lock her up in her room. Marshall is said to have admitted that the woman's stepmother is the only person who has seen her during the last three years.

A representative of the local Children's Aid Society was expected to buy the case before the State's attorney today.

AL H. WILSON

In presenting Al H. Wilson, the singing dialect comedian, in an exquisite divertissement of song and romance through the seductive story of "As Years Roll On," at the Auditorium on night only, Wednesday, November 24, Manager Sidney R. Ellis has departed from the usual type of plays in which Mr. Wilson has heretofore appeared by providing his star with an up-to-date play which contains a story interpreted by modern characters. Periodic in theme, the plot will recall the "Seven Ages of Man," for it is written around the episodes that occur in a man's life from young manhood to middle age, and then on to the three score years and ten period. At the age of twenty-two "John Van Zant," a soldier of Holland, comes to America with his young wife after being informed that a superior officer who he assaulted when resisting arrest is dead. HOUSTON BOYS

The agents visited schools at Gordon, Patsy, Ashford and Webb and found that the boys appeared greatly interested in the plans.

GIRLS IN BAD HEALTH

Hundreds of girls go to work day after day, afflicted with some ailment peculiar to their sex, dragging one foot wearily after the other, working always with one eye on the clock and wishing for closing time to come. Every such girl should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore her to a normal healthy condition, then work will be a pleasure. For forty years this famous root and herb medicine has been pre-eminently successful in controlling the diseases of women. Why don't you try it?

There are but two clouds to mar the sunshine of evening years—the death of his wife, ten years later, and the fear that some day his daughter will learn of the crime which caused him to flee his native land, a fear that takes sudden flight on the eve of his daughter's marriage, when the true facts become known. Miss Laura Lammers will be seen in the leading role. She is a competent actress and adds considerable distinction to the supporting company. During the performance Mr. Wilson will render several new songs of his own composition.

STORIA

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment.

But one thing I'm sure of. Thanksgiving day is not generally celebrated now as it used to be when I was a boy. For one thing, I don't believe many people have family prayers on that day, or any other, for that matter, but fifty years ago it was a very irreligious family indeed, who did not hold a special Thanksgiving service of that kind. ## PELLAGRA, ITS CAUSE AND CURE.

Has a cure for pellagra, the mystifying disease that has claimed numerous victims throughout the country, and particularly in the South, been discovered, asks the Birmingham Ledger. The government's public health service answers in the affirmative, following the successful experiments conducted by Dr. Joseph Goldberger on Mississippi convicts. Many doctors throughout the South, on the other hand, deny the government's claim.

While Dr. Goldberger is supported in his report to the government that pellagra is caused by an unbalanced cereal diet by some doctors, medical science is divided on the question, many doctors believing Dr. Goldberger's theory untenable.

If Dr. Goldberger really has found the cause of and a cure for pellagra, his discovery will be second in importance only to the government's find of the cause of yellow fever and the proper preventive measures. Thousands of persons die from Pellagra every year in the South, and it is estimated that before the close of 1915 fully 75,000 cases of the disease will have been found.

Dr. Goldberger, in his experiment on Mississippi convicts, who were pardoned for submitting themselves as subjects, found that a diet of cereals and sweets and lacking fresh lean meats, milk, eggs, beans and peas was the cause of pellagra, as six of eleven convicts, after five months of the one-sided diet, developed the malady. Furthermore, earlier experiments proved, states the report, that about 200 pellagra patients had been cured by balanced rations.

But this diet theory is not accepted by all doctors. At the Southern Medical association's convention in Dallas recently, and at the Tri-State Medical association's convention at Memphis, many doctors openly attacked Dr. Goldberger's theory.

Dr. B. H. Booth, of Drew, Miss., declared that most pellagra patients were negroes, who lived better than ever before with rice and beans as their chief staples. And Dr. J. L. Jelks of Memphis, even went further: he stated that at Dallas last week he saw several millionaires who were suffering from pellagra, and who certainly were not half-starved on cereals and sweets.

Dr. Goldberger's experiments, however, are encouraging. They hold out much hope to the pellagra-afflicted. Only time and further experiments can conclusively establish absolute soundness or unsoundness of his theory.

OLD TIME THANKSGIVING.

From the New York Sun

"Thanksgiving weather may be the same as it always has been," said the gray haired, young looking man. "My own recollection is that I used to go skating almost every year on that day, but the weather bureau insists that the climate has not changed and I don't dispute the point.

"But one thing I'm sure of. Thanksgiving day is not generally celebrated now as it used to be when I was a boy. For one thing, I don't believe many people have family prayers on that day, or any other, for that matter, but fifty years ago it was a very irreligious family indeed, who did not hold a special Thanksgiving service of that kind. The day had its distinct religious character, though was not kept holy as the Sabbath was. There was plenty of jollity and the sport indoors and out, aside from the special indulgence at the table.

"Thanksgiving meals were things to remember. Those were the 'good old days' when doughnuts were made as big as bricks, and 'twas not thought necessary to eat as many as six, but the doughnut came between meals and on Thanksgiving day they were not greatly in demand.

"For breakfast we always had chicken with many 'fixins' and pan-cakes and sweet cider for dessert. It was a meal for all gathered for the feast, and it was a small family that did not muster at least twenty strong. We all went home to grandpa's, the last one of us. Commonly every living member of four generations would be together for that day, no matter how scattered their homes might be.

"After dinner there'd be enough outdoor sport to raise an appetite for 6 o'clock supper, and after supper indoor games among the young people till bedtime, but even the oldest were dragged into the games until they were tired out.

"There may be families that keep up the old custom even yet but I wouldn't know where to look for them. Even if I did, I don't suppose I'd be able to get any of the mince and pumpkin pies. And if I should get any of them they wouldn't be such as grandma used to make."

THE EARS MUST GO

Dame Fashion has decreed that the ears must go, so they go—that's all, says the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette. For ten or fifteen years probably we had wondered if Milady had ears, they were so swathed in hair, and on ly occasionally when she lifted the mass to catch a bit of conversation were we at all sure that she could hear. But a few short months ago Fashion took away all her hair and she appeared—almost shaven and shorn—but she had ears. Some women had nice big ones and others had little ones that looked as if they were beginning to atrophy. And now that we are used to the beautiful ear, which seems to have been intended to round out the contour of woman's face, it must go. For the new small hats that are coming into vogue are high-crowned and narrow-brimmed and are worn well down on the head, so if the hair is to appear at all it must be brought low—consequently ear-coverings and ear curls have returned. In many cases this portion of the hair is about all one glimpses between the narrow modish hat rim and the high-upstanding collar, so popular this year. The hair is drawn loosely over the upper half of the ear, or it is looped over it so that only the lower lobe shows a tiny bit. Then there are the ear curls. They take on two forms—that of the strictly disciplined "spit" curls, so common in the eighties, and the less artificial curls which form a cluster of hair just in front of the ear. All of these aim to hide this most useful organ. So woman goes deaf again for a time.

COTTON CROP FUTURE DOES NOT LOOK GOOD

By James A. Wade,
Commissioner of Agriculture of Alabama.

The outlook for the 1918 cotton crop is confronted with even greater difficulties than was the 1915 crop this date last year. The losses of the 1915 crop were due to a late start in the spring, a heavy frost in the fall, and a heavy frost in the spring. The outlook for the 1918 crop is confronted with even greater difficulties than was the 1915 crop this date last year. The losses of the 1915 crop were due to a late start in the spring, a heavy frost in the fall, and a heavy frost in the spring.

been a month on starvation. This evidently shortens the starvation period and assures a large number of weevils to attack the cotton early next spring.

With cotton seed meal thirty-five dollars per ton, acid phosphate twenty dollars per ton and muriate of potash four hundred dollars per ton and not half enough available at any price, can we continue to grow cotton under these conditions, not knowing what will influence the market and having no idea what the price will be next fall?

My advice to farmers is to stay on the safe side of something to eat, create as little debt as possible. Let the sulphuric acid and nitrate be shipped to the munition factory and sold to the warring nations of Europe.

The war in Europe looks like a war of physical and financial exhaustion. It may be a great many years before Europe can take and produce the cotton seed meal of America. As a result, which has been the amount taken by foreign countries for several years past. In view of these facts we should reduce our production of cotton and devote most of our energies to other crops without waiting for low prices and bankruptcy to teach us the error of our way.

Without fertilizer, we cannot make an early cotton crop; the weevils will eat up a late crop; the high price of fertilizer and the damage of the weevil will take all the profits of an early crop. There is no way but to stand by our grain, hay, vegetable and fruit crops and push our livestock industry until the war is over and business and prices set the down in normal.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious—merely bright, alert, a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are secured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anemic-looking men, women and girls, with pale or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nervous wrecks," "run-downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.
